3. Scientific Abstract and Technical Claims

This invention introduces a novel 72-voice radial sonification instrument designed to map Open-Source Intelligence (OSINT), HUMINT, and SIGINT data streams into a circular audio topology. The system comprises 18 angular steps representing categorical intelligence dimensions and 4 concentric rings representing temporal depth and confidence levels. Each voice is independently spatialized and frequency-modulated based on sentiment, source reliability, and signal density. The core thesis — 'Human behavior is the real WMD' — is operationalized through behavioral pattern sonification, allowing analysts to detect anomalous collective behaviors through auditory perception.
